In Standard American South opens two spades and North responds two no-trump. This negative response shows 0-7 or maybe 8 points.

South rebids to three hearts and North gives a preference to three spades. At this point a very pessimistic South might just go to game but most of the South players we have met blast to a slam. After all, the queen of hearts is enough.

The JACOBY MODERN bidding is shown in the box. South opens two clubs and North makes the really negative response to two diamonds to show 0-3 points.

South rebids two spades and North is able to make a second negative response of two no-trump. This doesn't actually say that he doesn't hold a face card. It merely states that he has nothing of value to show.

South rebids three hearts and North gives the preference to three spades. South thinks about the slam for awhile but finally settles for just bidding four spades. Five spades is lay down so he makes his game plus an overtrick.

What would happen if North held one less heart and one more club or diamond? He would still have a blank hand but the slam would wheel in. Furthermore JACOBY MODERN would get to that slam.

With four spades and a doubleton heart North would jump from three hearts to four spades. He would not be showing much strength but he would be showing a real liking for spades and after that jump South could and would bid the slam.

HELEN HELP US!

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED for it, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

MORE FROM A SERVICEMAN'S GIRL

Dear Helen:
Here are some additions to "The Serviceman's Girl." From the time he gave you his last kiss and said good-bye, you've had a big empty space in your heart—a space which can only be filled by his return.

Every day you rush to the mailbox. "Hey, I got two letters from Dennis today!" Or say to yourself, "Oh well, he'll write tomorrow." (He does, too!)

It's crying all over his letter and smearing the ink, just because he said he loves you and misses you terribly.

It's stapling each letter so your Mom or little sister won't "just happen" to read them.

It's numbering each one, and when you get 53, the lid on the box won't close anymore. So you tie them together with pink and blue ribbons and put them in your hope chest.

It's cutting out paper dots with a hole puncher, so when he opens the letter, the dots fall all over him. Then he writes back and says he had a fan blowing on him at the time. You wonder if he's mad, but he tells you in the P.S. that he isn't.

It's not counting the days till he comes home, but the hours and minutes.

It's bragging about him all the time and showing his picture to people you don't even know.

It's staying up until 2 a.m. writing poems about him.

It's being totally and wholly in love and knowing he loves you in return.

It's writing to "Helen Help Us" so you can share your feelings with everyone who reads her column, especially the ones who have a serviceman as a boy friend. — JUDY, AGE 17

Dear Helen:
I'll be starting college after Christmas and I am faced with a serious problem.

At home I've been able to abstain from smoking marijuana, or taking drugs. At school I am afraid that I will be approached by "pushers." I don't want to get mixed up with any pot parties, but I do not know how to refuse and still be "cool."

Your partner opens one spade. What do you respond with?

about it. — NON-SMOKER

Dear Non:

Reading your letter, I get the impression you see college as a place where "pushers" lurk at every corner. Not so!

There'll be plenty of grass around, true, but no one will high-pressure you into taking it, nor will they put you down if you don't. And you'll find many students who share your views. Stop worrying! — H.

Dear Helen:

I just turned 21, have been working as a carpenter, and will start college soon. I will work part time to scratch up my own money for books, tuition and living expense.

This summer I met THE GIRL. She's wonderful, virtuous, talented, responsible, and I'm crazy about her. She doesn't know my overwhelming feelings, but I know she's the only girl I'll ever want for my wife. Would I scare her off by coming out and telling her? I'm afraid if I don't she'll find someone else, but I'm in no position to marry right now. Do I speak up or keep quiet? — TO ASK OR NOT TO ASK

Dear TAONTA:

Speak up. She's probably wondering why you've been so slow. — H.

Nimble-Thimble Supergifts

By JOANNE SCHREIBER

Who says an embroidered pillow cover has to cover a pillow? The newest and brightest idea in the nimble-thimble league is to use the 18 by 18-inch pillow squares as a sensational border on an evening skirt, as a dress-up apron, as a handsome tote bag or a fabulous heirloom bedspread.

These are the supergifts that will make cash registers ring at the needlework table for the church bazaar, where fine and imaginative needlework is most appreciated.

The needlework experts at Dritz-Scoville suggest a patchwork-sample design, with a variety of classic crewel stitches worked into squares. The whole pillow-cover may be done in crewel, or the worked squares can alternate with plain ones to provide the same effect with less work.

To make the evening skirt, choose a lustrous velvet in a rich holiday color, and put five or six crewel squares around the hem. Work a miniature for a pocket.

To make the apron, line the square with the material intended for the back of the pillow, and top-stitch on a tie sash of heavy 2-inch grosgrain ribbon.

To make the tote bag, complete the pillow cover but add a lining of sailcloth. Add the top zipper if desired. The braided yarn shoulder strap is sold in drapery departments.

A coverlet, made of 9 patchwork squares joined together, is absolutely magnificent. Give it a silky lining in a bright tone, to contrast with the rough texture of the crewel. Make a dust ruffle of matching material. This is a gift to make for a very special bride, truly a labor of love, for her to cherish and hand down—a contemporary heirloom.

This basic approach may be applied to any pillow cover in any design, whether done in crewel embroidery, needlepoint or stitched patchwork.

Other pillow designs in patchwork, crochet and smocking, plus dozens of lovely transfer designs, are in the Fall and Winter Needlework Album, available exclusively to readers of this newspaper. For your copy, send 65 cents with your name, address and zip, to: Needlework Album, Stitchin' Time, c/o this newspaper, Box 593, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10020.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

For Christmas gifting or church bazaars, take a tip from Dritz-Scoville and turn embroidered pillow covers into trim for evening skirts, holiday aprons or tote bags. Patchwork squares in crewel stitchery are contemporary and fresh.

$6 Million Adventure Film Took Three Years to Make

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) Director James Clavell is busily editing what may be the last big adventure film of them all.

Called "The Last Valley," it was shot in a picturesque Austrian valley with a cast headed by Michael Caine and Omar Sharif. It cost $6 million and took three years to make.

"I imagine," Clavell says, "that if I'd come along with the project six months later, it wouldn't have been made at all. By then, the financial rot had set in."

Clavell has always been lucky, he says, in getting in under the wire that way. He is a novelist as well as producer-director-screenwriter. He wrote the big best-seller, "Tai-Pan," and sold it for a whopping price to the movies. That was about the last big novel sale. (It was never made; it would have cost too much.)

Writing "Tai-Pan" took so much out of him that he had to get away, get into an atmosphere where there were people and physically stimulating activity. Directing provides that and then some.

"As a producer-director," he says, "you're the little father, the guiding spirit of the company. They look to you to solve all their problems. We were shooting in Austria on the top of a mountain in a blizzard and, that first day, one of the actors died. What do you do with a body in a blizzard on top of an Austrian mountain? Those are the kind of problems you face."

"While we were in that location, the company had three divorces and a couple of marriages and I don't know how many illegitimate babies started."

"But now, after three years of the picture, I've had enough of that and I need some spiritual cleansing so I'll go back to writing a novel."

He does that, swinging back and forth from novels ("King Rat") to pictures ("To Sir With Love") to novels to pictures.

But what do you do with a dead body in a blizzard on top of an Austrian mountain?

You've probably read by now of the latest explosion to rock the Hollywood scene—the firing of Scoey Mitchell from the cast of Barefoot in the Park, the new ABC comedy series.

The inside story is that Mitchell was simply being a bad boy. He used the foulest of language around the set. He threatened people and, according to one person who was there, he hit a member of the production staff. He would show up at 11 a.m.—when he was supposed to appear at 6:30.

"We are sick about it," said one of Mitchell's business associates, "because we know he's a talented man who may have kicked his biggest chance away by his temperamental shenanigans." Mitchell was not making himself available for any comment.

Television, operating as it does on a tight schedule, cannot afford a temperamental actor, a trouble-making actor. The word is that Mitchell's cutting-up cost thousands of dollars because of the necessity for going overtime.

Now the question is—will the show continue at all? They are, officially, looking for a replacement. But if the early ratings are not good, the word is that the whole project will be dropped.

Incidentally, before the ugliness crops up—the firing was not racial. Mitchell's black fellow cast members were as upset at his behavior as anybody else and wondered why the producers took so long in doing what they did.

Election Case Stayed by High Court

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court stayed Wednesday a Garland County Chancery Court order barring the county election commission from putting Dr. Grady Roper's name on the ballot for coroner.

The high court did not, however, rule that Roper was eligible to serve as coroner, if elected.

After an hour-long hearing, the Supreme Court decided to permit Roper's name to be on the ballot, with the eligibility question to be settled later.

A transcript of the chancery case, as well as briefs from opposing attorneys are to be filed with the Supreme Court by 9 a.m. Oct. 26 so the court can render a final decision before the Nov. 3 general election.

Chancellor James Chesnut ruled Tuesday that Roper, the Republican nominee, could not have his name on the ballot because he has purposely attempted to evade a provision of Amendment 29 prohibiting an appointed official from being elected to succeed himself.

The action was taken in a suit filed by M. E. Rodgers of Hot Springs. The Democratic nominee is Dr. W. M. Lee of Hot Springs.

Roper, also of Hot Springs, was appointed to the post of coroner on March 27, 1969, serving until April 28, 1970, when he resigned.

James Duncan was then named coroner. Roper stayed as deputy coroner, then filed for election as coroner and on Sept. 19, was certified as the GOP nominee for the post.

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

By ROGER DOUGHTY

STEPPIN' LIGHTLY—Got to hand it to Gordon Lightfoot, the Canadian singer, who is coming on strong as one of the best young composer-performers in the business. Caught live at Carnegie Hall recently, Gordon was right on target with his audience (most of which was made up of teen-agers with songs like "Me and Bobby McGee," "Minstrel of the Dawn," "If You Could Read My Mind" and "Sit Down Young Stranger," which is the title of his latest album. Nice thing about Gordon's success is that he seems so surprised that people like him so much.

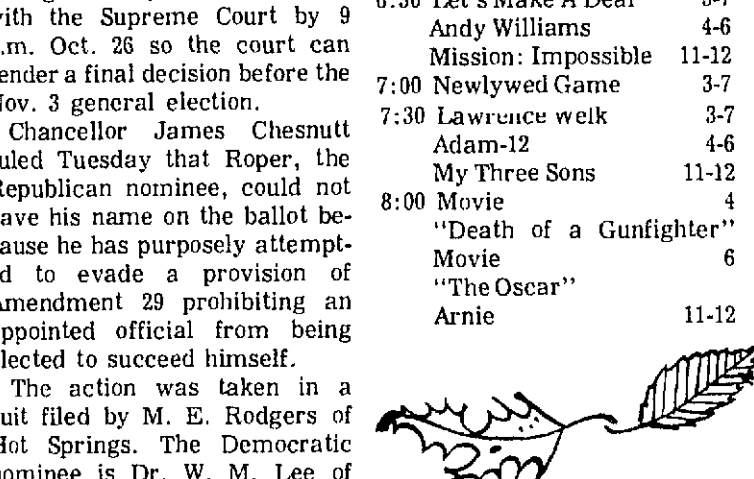

"I don't dig politics as such," says Gordon, "I just write songs because I like to make music and I've got it in me. Sometimes I've been up half the night traveling or working and a song will just sort of happen. I just have to write it before I go to bed, even if it keeps me up 24 hours to get it all down."

The results are worth it, as you'll see when you catch up with "Sit Down Young Stranger."

HAVING A BALL!—Latest ball game (besides the TV variety) is something called The Red Eye. Thing looks like a World War II mine, but it's a lot safer (matter of fact, it won't roll into the road, or anywhere else, since it has spikes or prongs or something—it looks like an oversize jack). Anyway, if you can think of a good reason for wanting one, tell us. If we dig your idea the most, we'll send you one.

SEA STORY—If you think the age of earthbound exploration and adventure is over, take a look at William D. Smith's new book, "Northwest Passage." It's the story of the SS Manhattan, which sailed through the Arctic ice pack last year and opened up the Northwest Passage. Smith was the only journalist to make the entire trip and the book is good reading for young people who think the age of adventure is dead. It's nice to be wrong now and then.

White's third PAT was true to its mark and seconds later Hope had a 21-0 halftime lead.

For the first few minutes of the second half neither team moved, but with 6:15 left in the third segment, Crossett recovered a fumbled punt at the Bobcats 25.

Six plays later fullback Bubba Lovett scored for Crossett on a three yard plunge with 3:45 to go.

Lovett's extra point was good and Hope led 21-7.

Crossett once again received the ball on downs and on a first and fifteen from the Bobcat 28, Mike Hutchins hit Frank Carter for the last score with only 2:45 left in the game.

The extra point was no good and the final score was Hope 21, Crossett 13.

Mike Cuellar, the starter in Cincinnati for the second game Sunday, went only two innings and Weaver said he'd have to wait and see if that was the proper amount of work.

Weaver's decision to start Jim Palmer in the Series opener, plus the four-day delay since both the Orioles and Reds swept their league playoffs in three games, has thrown Baltimore's pitching rotation off the norm.

Palmer pitched the third game of the playoffs, striking out 12 Minnesota batters in a 6-1 victory Monday. But because he is a right-hander, Palmer has been given the first game assignment against Cincinnati's predominantly right-handed hitting lineup.

Cuellar will have had seven days off between starts and McNally eight, hence the hard throwing Thursday.

Hope Hangs on to Win at Crossett

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer

Last night at Forrest Field in Crossett, the Hope Bobcats caught fire early and downed the Eagles, 21-13, behind a powerful running attack for their fifth victory.

This now earns Hope a 5-1 season record and a 3-0 record in conference play. The next game will be at home in Hammons Stadium, against the Arkadelphia Badgers, on the Bobcats homecoming.

Hope won the coin toss and taking the opening kickoff, started from their own 32 yard line. Not once did the Hope team sputter on this drive, moving steadily downfield and picking up the valuable first down yardage when they needed it.

Gaining short yardage at a time and aided by a 30 yard burst by Ray Wheelington, the Bobcats moved to the Eagle 15 yard stripe in 10 plays. On the next play, Roger Newton, behind some good blocking, found daylight around right end and outraced the remaining Crossett defenders to the end zone for the first Bobcat score, with 7:49 left in the first period.

The extra point by Tim White went through the crossbars and Hope had a quick 7-0 lead.

Crossett took the kickoff, ran three plays, and had to punt and after Newton ran the return back 26 yards, the Bobcats set up camp on the Eagle 29. Five plays was all Hope needed.

The first two plays netted nine yards, before Ronnie Massanelli connected with Roger Newton for a seven yard pass play. Gary Wheelington ran for 12 yards and then on the next play he slammed off left tackle from one yard out for the Bobcats second score with 6:04 left in the first period.

White again split the uprights with the PAT and Hope had a 14-0 lead early in the game.

After moving into the second quarter, the Bobcats took possession of the ball at their own 40 with 5:10 left in the first half. Large chunks of yardage moved the ball to the Eagle three yard line in seven plays and the Bobcats would score again.

On the next play, fullback Gary Don Jones hit off left tackle and bulled his way into the end zone from three yards out with 0:38 showing on the clock.

White's third PAT was true to its mark and seconds later Hope had a 21-0 halftime lead.

WESTPORT, Conn.—(NEA) — Automobile racing has been called "The Sport of the 70s" and, if the activity this year is any indication, it is living up to the name.

Millions of dollars are being pumped into race tracks, purses and racing equipment, but this transusion of gold into racing may be the next-to-last ministrations to a dying sport. With America's history of overreaction, the last rites will probably take the form of a congressional action to ban the burning of fossil fuels.

Racing is already being affected by the antipollution movement. SCCA's 1971 Trans-Am rules provide that 1970 engines can be used in 1971 cars simply because there will be few '71 engines suitable for competition. Bore-stroke ratio and valve size of the new engines is such that it is impossible to convert one to the 5-liter 500 hp powerplant necessary for Trans-Am competition.

Of course, pure racing engines such as the Offenhauser and the Cosworth Ford are still being built, but the majority of the racing in this country is dependent upon production-based engines. And production lines all over the world are under the antipollution gun.

Although it is doubtful that a Saturday night midjet show, or a Sunday afternoon Can-Am or Grand National contribute a n significant amount of emission to the overlay of smog, the monumental traffic jam of spectator automobiles is bound to draw the fire of the antipollutionists at the event itself.

While true that the attraction responsible for the traffic could just as well have been a football game, there is little doubt that the image of the speeding, noisy race cars on the track will become intertwined with that of the thousands of idling, creeping passenger cars trying to leave the speedway after the race. It is then but a short step to making all auto racing the target of an antipollution campaign.

There is no doubt that the mass exhaust of automobiles is a significant contributing factor to air pollution and the automotive industry is trying to find a solution. But suddenly they have become the bad guys and are being accused of foot-dragging by segments of the government and other special interest groups.

Meanwhile, the industry tends to separate these problems from those it encounters on the race track. Manufacturers involved in racing admit engines they are developing to satisfy emission control requirements are not going to be suitable for racing and want the sanctioning bodies to come up with rules that will allow the use of specially constructed racing engines.

At the moment, the engine in Joe Blow's Camaro at

Bob Gibson Next In All-League Poll

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—For the second straight season, catcher Johnny Bench of the Cincinnati Reds is the top vote-getter in the annual All-Major League team poll conducted by Newspaper Enterprise Association.

All players on the 24 big-league clubs participated in the voting.

The 23-year-old Bench, in only his third season in the major leagues, has already established himself as one of the finest catchers the game has known. A nail, it is said, has been hammered into the wall in Cooperstown and just waits to accommodate his Hall of Fame plaque.

But for today, Tom Seaver, New York Mets' star pitcher, said, "If you were to start a team from scratch, you'd have to take Johnny Bench first as the man to build it around."

Bench, outfielder Henry Aaron of Atlanta and relief pitcher Ron Perranoski of Minnesota were the lone repeaters from last year's team.

Following Bench in the voting for catcher are two other crack young catchers, Manny Sanguillen of Pittsburgh and Ray Fosse of Cleveland.

Bench's voting superiority was demonstrated by the total of 468 ballots for him. Sam Guillen was next with 130.

Bob Gibson of St. Louis was next best vote-getter with 446, for starting pitcher.

The All-Player All-Major League team includes Boog Powell of Baltimore, first base; Glenn Beckert of the Cubs, second base; Tony Perez of Cincinnati, third base; Luis Aparicio of the White Sox, shortstop; Billy Williams of the Cubs, Carl Yastrzemski of Boston and Aaron in the outfield; Bench, catcher; Gibson, starting pitcher, and Perranoski, reliever.

In voting for NEA and (name of your paper), the men crossed league boundaries to select the 10 finest players in the game, and wound up picking four American Leaguers and six from the National League. Last year, it was just the reverse.

The Cubs and the Reds were the only teams to place two men on the team.

Interestingly, the Pirates, who won the Eastern Division title in the National League, failed to place a man on the team. Their catcher, Sanguillen, and their standout right fielder, Roberto Clemente, did make the second team, however.

The second best vote-getter was Bob Gibson, who finished the season with a 23-7 record. After a wide margin, Dave McNally of Baltimore, Seaver and Mike Cuellar, also of Baltimore, followed Gibson in the voting.

The closest voting was for relief pitcher, Perranoski edged Wayne Granger of Cincinnati. Perranoski had 338 votes to Granger's 322.

No More Excuses
From Taxpayers

Teachers and administrators make up the backbone of the school system. They are mainly taken for granted.

In this school district they are vastly underpaid. Now I know that you have heard this over and over, but please bear with me this one more time.

Last spring a measure to raise the millage came before the people of Hope School District IA, and it was defeated soundly.

The main complaint was that the voters' taxes were already too high and many could not bear any more.

Let me say this: "You may consider your taxes too high, and I think most of the people who do are not carrying their full share. I say this because if the taxpayers in this school district were carrying their load then the tax assessment program in Hempstead County would not be below the requirement set by law. Now because of this the Hope School District might not receive the full allotment of funds from the state government."

So far you have hurt us, the students, badly, perhaps critically, three times in less than a year.

First, when you voted down the millage you made it much harder for the school system to hire teachers of the caliber it needs.

Second, when you failed to assess your property properly, you took more funds of the school system than it needs.

Then third, when your assessment program was rated below specified requirements, you endangered even more precious funds away from our school district.

But I say to you, know that it is your responsibility to keep your assessments up to the requirements of law no matter what anyone else is doing.

Those of you who say "Well, since I don't have any children in school, I shouldn't have to pay school taxes anymore" you are lacking one thing that is missing in many places in this day and time. What you are missing is patriotism!

You people should be proud to pay for the education of the Americans who will someday be the rulers of this great country. (From Hope Hi-Lights) By Jim Pruden.

Genoa, Italy Floods Leave 30 Deaths

GENOA, ITALY (AP)—Flood waters receded in Genoa and its hinterland today, leaving at least 30 dead and damage estimated at about $5 million.

Hampered by shaky communications and impassable streets, authorities estimated that hundreds were injured when the Bisagno River, swollen by 48 hours of rain, swept through the big port city Thursday.

Newspapers compared the disaster to the 1966 flood in Florence, in which 33 persons died. But although the death toll might rise as high or higher, Genoa is not the repository of priceless art that Florence is. Therefore the material damage was bound to be less.

Hundreds of policemen and firemen searched for victims in viaducts and cars. Slime and mud covered the first floors of many buildings in the port area. Electric and telephone lines were down in some sections. Water stood as high as eight feet in some places.

Thirteen bodies were found in Genoa, and another 17 dead were counted in the city's suburbs or surrounding areas.

The flooded area extended in an arc for miles around Genoa. Among towns hard hit were Voltri, Acquasanta, Vesima, Campo Ligure, Masone, Rossiglione, Arenzano and Mele.

The mayor of Genoa ordered all schools to remain closed today and asked the people not to use their cars so they would not impede the search for victims.

Campaign Cost Issue Is Up to Nixon

By ROBERT A. HUNT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is receiving advice from both parties in Congress as the deadline approaches for action on a bill limiting broadcast spending by political candidates.

Republicans, whose campaign fund is bulging, are urging the President to veto the bill, calling it discriminatory to radio and television.

And Democrats, who have more seats to lose and less money to do it with, are asking Nixon to sign the bill which they call a landmark to honesty and fair play.

If Nixon does not veto the bill by midnight Monday, it will become law with or without his signature. It does not, however, become effective for another 30 days—bypassing the Nov. 3 elections.

In addition to limiting broadcast spending, the bill repeals equal-time requirements, allowing broadcast debates between major candidates for president and vice president without giving equal time to minor parties. It also guarantees candidates the lowest commercial rate for their advertising.

"It is the most significant legislation ever passed on election spending," said Rep. Ray J. Madden of Indiana, chairman of the House Democratic Steering Committee. "It is in keeping with President Nixon's expressed concern for reform and modernization of our political and governmental institutions."

Madden said his panel approved a resolution urging Nixon, "in the interest of fair play, honesty and democracy," to sign the bill. The resolution urges Congress to override any veto.

Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton of Maryland, chairman of the Republican National Committee, has told Nixon he would be inclined toward a veto.

"It's such a discriminatory sort of bill because it picks on one media," Morton said.

Rep. William L. Springer of Illinois, ranking Republican of the House Commerce Committee which has jurisdiction over the bill, said the bill isn't the complete answer but "it is the best we could get and is a good beginning."

The bill would set a spending limit of seven cents for each vote cast in the last general election or $20,000, whichever is higher, for candidates for president, vice president, U.S. senator, U.S. representative, governor and lieutenant governor.

Certainly Is a Big Difference With Those Who Can't Say No

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — There's a big difference between what happens to a girl who can't say no and a fellow who can't say no.

The girl is wine and dined and taken everywhere, and may end up married to a successful lawyer or even—if she plays the game well—to a rich pro basketball player.

A different fate, however, awaits a fellow who can't say no. Disaster dogs his step as he plods from woe to woe.

Here, for example, are a few invitations which, it accepted, lead only to sorrow:

"Let me appoint you chairman of the committee. Don't worry, I'll see that somebody else does all the work."

"We want to throw a surprise party for old George on his birthday. How about using your apartment? If there's any damage, we'll all chip in and pay for it."

"If it wasn't a hot mink coat, do you think I'd be selling it to you in an alley? But my wife needs an operation, and I'm desperate. If I knock the price down to $50, will you take it?"

"I could tell you were a classy guy the minute you stepped into the bar, mister. How about buying a lonesome girl a teentysweatsy drink?"

"Just because he's wearing a uniform and a badge, you're not going to let him get away with talking to you like that, are you, Rodney? Tell him who you are."

"I think there's a pheasant in that patch of tall grass just ahead. Why don't you try to flush it, and I'll stand back here and wing it when it flies up?"

"Maybe your luck will change if we raise the ante to $5. Okay?"

"My yogi showed me an exercise that will make a new man of you. Here, just bend over and start to stand on your head, and I'll—"

"This restaurant looks so quaint and small I'm sure it couldn't be very expensive. Let's go in."

"The only way to impress a boss is to speak up to him. How about telling yours that he has to give you a merit raise or you'll peddle your wares elsewhere?"

"Go on and pass him. You're not chicken, are you?"

"You hold the nail—I'll do the hammering."

"The best way to win respect from one of these teen-age kids is to take him out in the back yard, put on the gloves, and show him who's who. I did it with mine, and now he calls me mister. Do you want to borrow my gloves?"

"Things are going so well I probably can pay back the $1,000 long before it's due. You don't mind being my cosigner, do you?"

Nixon Thinks Plan Opens Way to Peace

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon says he has made some new, flexible peace proposals that open the way for the North Vietnamese to make new proposals in return.

"If they do," he told newsmen Thursday, "we can make progress." And, he added: "That is the way we are going to play it."

The President said he hoped Hanoi would take the proposals "as seriously as we intend them." He said he was not discouraged by initial adverse reaction from North Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

Nixon said he was waiting for "the official response from Hanoi" at the public session of the Paris negotiators next week.

"We hope that it would indicate progress," he said.

Nixon said his five-point plan included "some new proposals," including an offer of "total withdrawal of all our forces, something we have never offered before, if we have mutual withdrawal on the other side."

Nixon came to Florida Thursday for the weekend after a European tour and the launching of his Indochina proposals in a nationally televised broadcast Wednesday night.

He stopped en route to dedicate an oceanographic science center on Skidaway Island near Savannah, Ga., and got an enthusiastic welcome from thousands on the main street of Georgia's oldest city.

In Savannah, Nixon hailed "my good friend" Hal Suit, Republican candidate for governor of Georgia, and took Suit along on the motorcade and boat ride to Skidaway Island.

Democratic Gov. Lester Maddox, on hand to greet the President, complained to reporters that Nixon was "down here for political purposes."

When Nixon halted his limousine to get out and shake hands in the throng, Maddox alighted from his own car and hoisted youngsters above his shoulders. When Nixon climbed atop his car to give two-handed waves, Maddox kissed babies.

Iranian Airliner Hijacked

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Three Iranians hijacked an Iranian jetliner to Baghdad today and threatened to blow it up unless the Iranian government releases 21 prisoners, Baghdad radio reported today.

The broadcast said four women and three children were allowed to disembark at Baghdad, but 45 persons remained aboard the Iranian National Airline Boeing 727.

In Tehran, however, Iranian officials said Iraqi security agents arrested the three hijackers and that the plane left Baghdad five hours after it arrived. They said it proceeded for the Persian Gulf port city of Abadan and on to Kuwait.

The Baghdad Radio report was the only direct report from the Iraqi capital.

The broadcast said the armed hijackers set a deadline of 24 hours for the release of the persons they called political prisoners.

The radio identified the hijackers as Hassan Tahrani, Ali Reza and Mohammed Mahmoudi.

The release of the women and children followed negotiations between the hijackers and Iraqi authorities, the radio said.

It said that more than five hours after the plane landed in Baghdad, the passengers and hijackers were still aboard.

Iraqi authorities took stringent security precautions at the airport as they negotiated with the hijackers "to guarantee the safety of the passengers," the radio said. It reported that the Iraqi foreign ministry called in Majid Mahran, the Iranian charge d'affaires in Baghdad, and informed him of the incident.

After further negotiations, the broadcast said, the hijackers allowed the women and children off. This was two hours and 40 minutes after the plane touched down.

The radio said negotiations were still continuing to obtain the release of the remaining passengers.

An Iranian government spokesman said in Tehran that Iraqi authorities had arrested the hijackers and that the plane, with 41 passengers and eight crew members aboard, had been released.

Junior Auxiliary Has Prayer That Explains Purpose of the Group

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

"Send us, O God as Thy Messengers...to the children whom none have blessed..."

This excerpt from the Junior Auxiliary Prayer explains the reason for the organization's various projects geared to benefit young people. The Scholarship Program is two-fold, local and national, and we want to discuss them both.

First, on the local level, the Hope Junior Auxiliary has had a Spaghetti Supper in the fall for several years to raise money for a $500 scholarship for a deserving student who wants to go to college and for a $50 scholarship to go to an equally deserving student who wishes to attend a vo-tech school.

Next Friday, October 16 the annual Spaghetti Supper will be held at Hope High School from 5 to 7 p.m. with the members of the local Junior Auxiliary serving the delicious food at 75 cents per child and $1.50 per adult. Since this will be immediately preceding the Hope-Arkadelphia football game in Hammons Stadium, a good crowd is expected. Mrs. E. P. Young, Jr., and Mrs. Albert Graves chairman, say that plans have been completed and the J. A. members are looking forward to serving you.

The second phase of the Scholarship Program is on a national basis. Each participating chapter of the National Association of Junior Auxiliaries is eligible to endorse candidates for a scholarship for graduate study in the following fields related to the training of children with special needs: Mental Health, Mental Retardation, Speech Therapy, Gifted Child, Remedial Reading, and other related fields, subject to the discretion of the Scholarship Committee. Scholarships are not awarded for graduate work in general education. Both men and women are eligible, and the recipient may attend the college of his choice.

A grant will be awarded to a recipient for study during one scholarship year. If more than one year is required to complete the degree, a recipient is eligible to reapply for an additional grant, provided he has fulfilled satisfactorily all previous agreements.

Great importance is attached to the student's purpose in life and dedication to his chosen field. His purpose for entering his profession must coincide with Junior Auxiliary's underlying purpose of helping children in need. The student's intellectual attainment and scholastic record is of primary consideration.

Application forms for the national scholarship may be obtained from Mrs. Bill Watson, local chairman of scholarships. The application form, requested attachments and letters of recommendation must be on file with the Scholarship Committee by February 15, 1971.

The primary purpose of the Scholarship is not to honor the recipient but to present a gift to the selection of a recipient will be the candidate or candidates whom the Committee feels will accomplish the most outstanding work with children.

Reformers fared better on other attempts to change procedures as Congress completed Thursday final action on a bill to reorganize itself.

It was the first time in 24 years the House and Senate had agreed to change their procedures. The changes take effect Jan. 3 with the opening of the next Congress.

Final action came when the House, which spent two months picking half-heartedly at the measure, completed action by voice vote. The Senate had approved the measure earlier.

Since neither branch of Congress tinkers with the rules or procedures of the other, both adopted their own provisions and accepted the others' without change.

The measure now goes to President Nixon for his signature.

The time-hallowed seniority system, through which committee rankings are determined by the tenure of a member, had borne much of the brunt of reformists' attacks.

Amendments providing for the election of committee chairmen by the majority of the committee failed but reformists succeeded in eroding some of the chairman's powers.

Under terms of the measure, a majority of the committee members may call a meeting if the chairman refuses to do so. Senators are barred from serving on more than two major committees and one joint, select or special committee.

Other changes made will ban secret House voting and open House committees to television coverage. Electronic voting will be permitted in the House, Congress will receive a summer vacation, visitors will receive free tours of the Capitol, and congressional pages will be housed in a dormitory and sent to a special school.

Most of the more significant reforms were added by amendments in the House after a more limited measure was permitted by House leaders to reach the floor.

The attempt at reorganization was started five years ago and a reform bill eventually was passed by the Senate. House leaders, however, objected to many of its provisions and it was never brought to a vote.

Crash Probe to Bring Big Investigation

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sweeping investigation of the air charter industry and the way it is supervised by the Federal Aviation Administration was ordered Friday by Secretary of Transportation John Volpe even as the FAA grounded more planes in the wake of the 30-death Wichita State disaster.

New developments continued to come to light a week after the Oct. 2 crash of a leased twin-engine plane in Colorado killed 13 Wichita football players and other persons accompanying them to a game.

Here were the highlights: —Volpe, bypassing the FAA, ordered Adm. Willard J. Smith, assistant secretary of transportation for safety and consumer affairs, "to conduct this in-depth investigation and spare no effort, time or resources in determining the true condition of every chartered operation in the United States. He also will examine FAA regulations governing charter operations with a view toward correcting any deficiency which may be discovered."

—The FAA, reversing its previous statements, said it had indeed warned Golden Eagle Aviation Inc., whose crew flew the fatal flight, against operating large aircraft. But the official in Oklahoma City whom the FAA said issued the warning contradicted his Washington colleagues and said he hadn't contacted Golden Eagle for nearly a year.

—The FAA grounded two more Martin 404s which originally were in a lot of 14 aircraft along with the plane that crashed. On Thursday, it had grounded all planes known to be owned by Jack Richards Aviation Co., Inc., which had purchased the lot in 1968 and subsequently sold some of them.

One of the newly grounded planes, said FAA officials in Kentucky, was used last month to carry the Murray State University football team of Murray, Ky., to a game at Fairfield, Iowa.

A state official said the plane was provided by Louisville Air Taxi, Inc.

The FAA said it didn't yet know whether the Louisville firm had a sufficient passenger license to operate such a flight.

In the Wichita disaster, the university leased the plane from Richards and obtained the crew from Golden Eagle. The FAA called this a facade to avoid regulations governing passenger carriers and it revoked Golden Eagle's flight certifications for operating a plane too large for its authorization.

Exhibits are being set up at the Community Center Building in Mandeville, Arkansas for the sixth annual Country Arts and Handicrafts Show which is scheduled to be held October 16-18. Mandeville is located just northeast of Texarkana on old Hwy. 67, and the show is under the sponsorship of the Homan Extension Homemakers Club. Show hours are 9:00 a.m.-8:00 p.m. October 16 and 17, and 1 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. on October 18.

The Handicraft Show is open to both men and women exhibitors and was started in 1965 primarily to acquaint the public with the products made by many talented people who perhaps do not have the opportunity to display their articles of handicraft elsewhere. No awards are given and all articles are for sale. There is no admission charge to the public.

The Handicraft Committee has announced that space has been completely sold out to a large number of exhibitors. Included in the exhibits will be all types of sewn items (quilts, aprons, embroidered items, etc.), paintings, ceramics, wood carvings, leather goods, paper flowers, and many other articles are for sale.

In connection with the show, the sponsoring Homan Extension Homemakers Club operates a snack bar serving light refreshments, coffee and cold drinks. Homemade cakes and cookies may also be purchased. Proceeds all go to the maintenance of the Community Center Building.

At the close of the show a drawing will be held on the following items to be given away: an oil painting by Mrs. James O. Yeager, a case of home canned goods, and a doll complete with clothes, all handmade. A door prize will also be given.

The attempt at reorganization was started five years ago and a reform bill eventually was passed by the Senate. House leaders, however, objected to many of its provisions and it was never brought to a vote.

Questions Value of Agnew Visit

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dale Bumpers has now become a target of the alliterative phrasemaking of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, but its political value to Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller is questionable.

Bumpers, the Democratic nominee for governor, could turn to his advantage the remarks made by the Vice President in a speech Thursday night at Fort Smith in behalf of the candidacies of Rockefeller and other Republicans.

Bumpers had already sought in the general election campaign to picture himself as an underdog facing an incumbent governor "with $300 million" who has called in the national administration to help.

What opening did Agnew give him in describing Bumpers as a "grin-and-grunt fellow — the kind whose only claim to office is a simpler and a skirting of the major issues"? Bumpers strategists, knowing that their candidate has been articulate in projecting a sincerity to the voters, probably are pondering that now.
